

In Different Waters

In Different Waters is a true story of a mother and daughter giving up life as they know it along with most of their worldly possessions to follow their dream to move to Cancun, Quintana Roo, Mexico and start their own sailing/snorkeling tour business. Author Ruth Gonyaw describes many of their accomplishments and many of their difficulties they encountered along the way; crossing the border, getting their boat to Mexico, obtaining permits to run the business, and the fights to survive in the male world of the boat business. Ruth also shares incidents of their daily lives such as not knowing where her 15-year-old granddaughter was for 10 days and Ruth being arrested and having to go to the Mexican jail. She also describes how they survived the category 5 hurricane, Wilma, the hurricane that hovered over Cancun for 60 hours. She shares many more of their life experiences which left them wondering if it really was too much fun.
