

2537: The Year Our Planet Changed

The author has tried his best to recall memories of his early teenage years returning back to his homeland enjoying a few months with family and friends. Actually Baktash Khamsehpor takes us years back to the late 70s of the 20th century CE that equaled the late 30s of the 26th century in the Persian Calendar; The year 2537 or 1978. Those few memorable months back home were going to remind him overtime of not only a free and ideal Iran but an Iran of dreams. The writer has struggled to excavate and grasp all he could from his long past moments back home in order to set the records straight for the future.
