

In the Old Days book for Kindle

Ferdinand Boesch, born in 1902 of immigrant parents from the old country. He started life in New Jersey, then across to California at about six months old. From California to Oregon when he was ten. The family moved to a farm on Hunt Mountain in Baker Valley. He and brother Fred hunted, help farm and when Ferdinand developed a love for being out in the wilds hunting and trapping before settling down to farming, he wanted to share those experiences with others so they would know how people lived in the old days before electricity, telephone, motor vehicles and modern medicine. Life was a lot of hard work, but neighbor helped neighbor and their sense of humor is reflected in this witty tale of how things were In The Old Days.
